- The following forced labor camps are situated in Slovakia:
 - Lubochna, a former spa and now a camp for Slovakian forced workers. Interned at presentare 7 - 10,000 persons, who are housed in berracks.
 - Sastin, in the former Schossberg castle. This is a concentration camp for priests and clergymen as well as for other clerical persons. Number interned: 800 - 1,000.
 - ${f c}_{\circ}$ Novaky, a camp for Volksdeutsche who were not drawn into forced labor. This is a transient camp. It is also a forced labor came for Clovaks (7 - 10,000), who live in barracks and work in the coal mines.
 - d. Ilava, a prison for condemned political prisoners, numbering about 1,500, and a work camp for the ladec cement works. The number of workers fluctuates between 500 and 1,000 persons, who live in barracks.
- Besides these large camps, there are a number of smaller forced labor camps which, however, do not exceed more than 100. They are generally located near 2. large factories and often also near railway and building projects. Except for the Novaky area, the forced laborers work in no other mines.
